ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A label defines a function to be executed with respect to information that is recorded from a writing surface. The label includes a pattern that is associated with the function so that detection of the pattern identifies the function. The label may be configured to be attached to the writing surface by adhesive.